Violence and its Impact on Children: How Do We Respond?

Thursday, June 13 - 7 p.m. to 8:45 p.m.

Charles Houston Recreation Center

905 Wythe Street, Alexandria, VA 22314

What is the impact of violence on children, whether in the news, the neighborhood or close to home? How do we respond when they have questions or concerns about a violent event? Are there things we can do to help children become more resilient?

Giordana De Altin Popiolek, a clinical psychologist with the Department of Community and Human Services, who has worked with children and adolescents, will present information on this topic and address questions posed by community members.
